

- I will bring my love a rose
 Just to fasten in her hair,
 Every other bud that blows
 Will be envious of it there;
 She will take it with a flush,
 Crown her beauty with its grace,
 And another rose will blush
 On the marble of her face.
- I will send my love a word
 Written in a trembling hand;
 All her pulses will be stirred
 Though in vain she bid them stand;
 She will read it with a sigh,
 Half in joy and half in fear,
 All the sunshine of her eye
 Softened by a happy tear.
- I will bring my love a heart,
 Lay it, silent, at her feet,
 Leave it, stand a pace apart,
 Till her glance my gaze shall meet;
 Then, ah then, she'll turn to me,
 Find within my arms her rest,
 Build a home she shall not flee
 In the castle of my breast.

If the English customs are the standard (as they undeniably are for most people who aspire to be "smart") it may surprise those who have taught their daughters to "bob" to know that it is altogether an American adaptation of the funny little dip to royalty, says an Eastern writer. This "dip" in England is used to the various H. R. H.'s belonging to the reigning family. "What a funny habit the girls over here have of making bob-courtesys!" commented an English woman recently. "Only the little village children make them at home to 'the quality."

For very little girls it looks rather pretty, and might be considered a graceful act, whether it is English or not; but when they are old enough to "put up their hair" and lengthen their frocks, it is altogether better form to drop the courtesy as an exaggeration. Younger married women decidedly object to the respectful obelsance, and it is an awkward question to determine just at what age a matron is old mine just at what age a matron is old enough to be treated with special reverence. So it seems that, all things considered, the courtesy should not be encouraged in everyday intercourse, and should be relegated to dances or state occasions only.

"I was at a morning musical the other day at Newport." said a man of society, "and as I sat rather far back in the room, and found the classical music rather borning. I fell to counting how many women had nice looking hair and necks. I assure you, many of our good looking women would be horrified if they realized how absolutely ugly they are at the back, while, on the other hand, sometimes a smooth, white neck and glossy, thick, well arranged hair will prove to belong to one of the plainer sisterhood, who probably has no idea how attractive she is, seen from behind. It's a poor consolation, perhaps, but nevertheless I found it that morning a very desirable thing indeed."

Although, as it has already been said, it is given to few to have this special beauty, still much may be done by care. Hair may be made to look smooth and glossy by persistent treatment, unsightly and straggling ends may be trained to grow into place, and if the neck is decidedly ugly an arrangement may be studied whereby glossy colls, braids or curls may completely hide the deformity—for deformity it really is in a pretty woman.

In spite of the gibes of the male philosopher concerning woman's fondness for shopping, it is a fact that a large number of women dread and abhor that so-called amusement. Many put it off as long as possible, and go about it at last with frowning brows and a resolution to get it over promptly. These women like pretty things as well as do their shop-loving sisters; but they are bored by the long waits on the convenience of shop attendants, by the fruitless hunts for simple articles, by the discourtesy which they often find in the "saleslady," and by the velled insolence which they quite as often meet in the "sales-gentleman."

"Tastes differ," said the shower quickles in constant danger of falling off." A chorus of laughs greeted this suggestion.

"But I can't see what that has to do with it," said Miss Slow, puzzled. And in the midst of the gale of merriment that followed Miss Petite took occasion to inquire of Miss Rosebud: "May, dear, who's going to look out for your safety tonight?"

Miss Ada Fancher has issued invitations for Tuesday morning from 10 to 12, in honor of her guest, Miss Viles, of Bolivar, Mo.

It seems to be a mooted question in the East as to whether it is or is not good form for young girls to courtesy to their elders. Many of the latter declare it to be an annoyance and an affectation, while others deem it a graceful and pretty tribute to older people. As a matter of fact, however, it is not correct for girls who have grown up to keep up the "reverence."

If the English customs are the standard (as they undeniably are for most people who aspire to be "smart") it may surprise those who have taught their daughters to

The second annual Horse Show will open Saturday, September 5, at Fairmount park, and continue until the 12th inst. The show this year promises to be even more attractive in every way than its highly successful predecessor. Over 500 entries have been made and $15,000 in prizes will be awarded. The management has arranged for special trains to be run from Leavenworth, Atchison and Topeka every morning, which will be sidetracked on the rails of the Air line and return each evening during the show. The Fairmount Riding Club is practicing daily and presents a fine appearance. An "egg and spoon" race will be among the many amusements, for which one of the prizes offered is a five-branched silver candelabra. A suitable prize also awaits the best amateur bugler on the coaches. The following gentlemen have arranged coaching parties for the week, with the intention of serving luncheon upon the coach as a novel feature: Mr. Frank Lott, Mr. tention of serving luncheon upon the coach as a novel feature: Mr. Frank Lott, Mr. T. I. Brent, Mr. Winfield Denton, of Leavenworth, and Mr. Don Riley, of St. Joseph, Mr. W. B. McCurdy, of Topeka, will be present with his prize tandem. On Monday, September 7, the management will give a coaching party to the members of the press on the handsome new coach "Rambler."

The boxes have all been sold and box parties will be in order among the "150" of Kansas City society. Among the prospective hosts and hostesses of these affairs are Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. All members of the Rathbone Sisters and K. of P. and their friends are invited. Dancing will follow the literary and musical programme.

"This is very handsome." said one of the latter personages, pushing a particularly common and ugly article toward the shopper, a refined and gentle woman, whose taste had been cultivated by acquaintance with all that is beautiful in Europe and America. "This is handsome, too," he continued, pushing another atrocity towards her. "And you couldn't find anything handsomer than this." he ended, in a tone of authoritative impudence, producing a crowning horror in plated ware—a thing suited to the decoration of a third-class boarding house, but not to the beautifying of the home of cultivated people.

"Tastes differ," said the shopper quietly, and walked forth to seek what she wanted in a shop where there were more convenient attendants, as well as more tasteful things to buy. Many of the wealthy women attendants, as well as more tasteful things to buy, Many of the wealthy women and the wanted of anything wanted, from handkerchiefs up to costly wraps or brica-a-brac, are sent to the dwellings of the rich, and they are quently being accompanied by a special employe of the firm, who speaks for the amples frequently being accompanied by a special employe of the firm, who speaks for the particularly desirable.

"Coaching parties are so very popular this summer," remarked Miss Slow the other morning: "I wonder why?"

Rabbi and Mrs. Krauskopf left at 6 o'clock Thursday evening for Crescent Springs, Pa. They will arrive in Philadelphia on September 7, and on the following day, which is the Jewish New Year, will be tendered a public reception by Dr. Krauskopf's congregation in the parlors of the temple. They will be at home to friends after September 7 at the Lorraine, Philadelphia. A day's outing was given to the children of the free sewing school and kindergarten by Dr. Krauskopf and his bride, under the management of the Jewish Young Ladies' Aid Society.

Mrs. Krauskopf's reputation is of a national character, although he is but 33 years of age. He came to America from Germany at the age of 13, and tinirteen years ago came to Kansas City to preside over the B'nal Je marsh, Mrs. J. S. Hockaday, Miss Joseph-ine Hockaday, Miss Katle Henry and Miss Carrie Bryson. The most beautiful event of its kind that the season has witnessed was Miss Frances Hackney's garden party of last Thursday evening. A large dancing pavillon was erected on the lawn and various seats and nooks arranged. Under a huge Japaness umbrella coffee was dispensed by Miss Ethelyn Bugbee and Miss Katherine Cook, and over all was shed the soft light of many-colored Japanese lanterns. Within doors were quantities of blossoms. From the chandellers, twined with smilax, were suspended tiny baskets filled with fragrant postes. The fireplace in the first parior presented a solid front of crimson geraniums glowing among their green leaves. Here refreshments were served from small tables. Miss Frances Cravens, Miss Ruby Bugbee and Miss Blanche Edgecomb assisted the gracious young hostess. Mr. Charles H. V. Lewis, the genial cashier of the Union National bank, has been a "summer widower" since the middle of July, and complained of being lonely. Last Wednesday, from 8 to 9:30 p. m. at intervals of about five minutes his door bell rang and he was met with the remark, "I heard you were lonely, so came out," The surprise was complete. Among the party was the Warwick quartette known in Masonic circles as the Albert Pike quartette. Watermelons and canteloupes had been ordered out, to which full justice was done and the enforced host admitted that he had not been lonely for at least one evening. Of the party were: Messrs, Themas James, W. P. Voorhees, George H. Ellott, Sam T. Roberts, J. G. Stowe, C. R. Summers, Samuel Stophlet, Tom J. Eaton, O. P. Bloss, Fred T. London Journal Says He Is Good Enough for Princess Victoria. Enough for Princess Victoria.

London, Aug. 29.—The discussion of the rumor of the possible marriage of Mr. William Waldorf Astor to Princess Victoria, of Wales, has been reopened by a leading society journal, which regards the match as quite possible, saying it will give the greatest satisfaction of all intelligent people in the English speaking world, adding: "There has been more than one royal marriage in Europe during the past few years which was not so promising as would be the marriage of the daughter of a future king to a man of good physical attributes and moral commercial character, and who, under such circumstances, would speedily be promoted to a dukedom."

TOO FREE WITH HIS TONGUE.

colorado Pastor Expelled for Criticising Bishop Warren. Denver, Col., Aug. 29.-The Colorado M. E. conference has expelled Rev. F. F. Passmore from the ministry because he accused Bishop Warren of being in league with saloonkeepers and gamblers. Mr. Passmore takes the ground that in voting or working for Republican or Democratic tickets a minister of the gospel practically leagues himself with the saloon element, and that his position is against that canon of the Methodist discipline which asserts that licensing of the liquor traffic is a s.n.

AT THE SUBURBAN PARKS.

Colonel and Mrs. M. J. Payne have moved into the colonel's old homestead, No. 200 Main street, for the last ten years the home of Colonel R. T. Van Horn, where they will be pleased to receive their friends. The house, which was built by Colonel Payne thirty years ago, has been they. The Third Regiment band will give two bracing many novel and popular selections.

The famous Lockhart elephants will also be on exhibition at their quarters and Frank Maguire, a local baritone, will sing.

be on exhibition at their quarters and Frank Maguire, a local baritone, will sing.

With the concerts at Washington park this afternoon and evening the engagement of the Hoyal Hawaiian band and giee club will come to a successful close. Altogether it has been a most brilliant one, and a rough estimate of the people the band has played to in the four weeks it has been at the park would be 150,000, and this is only estimating 2,000 people to a concert, when often the band played to over 10,000 at a single concert, especially on Sunday.

The crowd at the park to-day to bid good-by to the swarthy musicians will be enormous, for the band may never be heard in Kansas City again. Electric cars will be run from the city every two minutes. The programme for the afternoon concert follows:

Two step march—(Liberati).

Waltz—"Sweet Moments" (Libornio). Fantasie—"Maritana" (Wallace). Song—By the quintette.
Descriptive—"A Hunting Scene (Bucalossi).

Selection—"Faust" (Gounod).
Saxaphone solo—"Old Love" (Roberts). Song—By the quintette.
Medley—"Around the Metropolis" (Beyer). Schottische—"Ma Angelina" (Johnson). Song—By the glee club.
March—"Dallas, Texas," (Liberino).

This afternoon at 5 and again in the evening at 9, Cyclist Knipscheer will make his now famous trip down the Troost park "chutes" on a bicycle, winding up with a daring dive over the handle bars into the Troost park lake. Knipscheer will also make the trip every afternoon and evening at the same hours. Wednesday night will be wheelmen's night at the "chutes."
